Every child should own a hundred books by the age of five. To that end, Book Dash gathers creative volunteers to create new African storybooks that anyone can freely print, translate and distribute. Then we work with partners to give those books to preschool children to own.

To find out more, and to download beautiful, open-licensed, print-ready books, visit bookdash.org.

Olwethu wants to play pretend.

“I want to fly like a bird, swim like a mermaid, roar like a lion,” she tells Gogo.

But Gogo says,
“Not now,
Olwethu.
It’s time to go to school.”

STOMP! STOMP!

Olwethu's feet go as she walks slowly to school.

But what is this?

There's a door, covered in feathers.

Olwethu walks up to it and...

WHOOSH!

Olwethu is a bird in the sky!

ZOOOOM!

Birds wave at her as they fly by.

She's flying!

But what is this?

There's another door,
covered in scales.

FLAP!
FLAP!

She flies over, touches the door and...

SPLISH! SPLOSH!

Olwethu is a mermaid in the ocean!

The fish smile at her as she swims by.

But what is this?

There's another door, shining bright
like the sun.

She swims over, and...

“GRRRRRRRRR!”

Olwethu is a lion in the savannah.

She opens her mouth and...

“ROOOAAARRRR!”

Her voice is loud and powerful.
But what is this?

There’s another door, covered with photos of her friends.

She prowls over, holds up her paw, and...

WHIZZ!

Olwethu is herself again.

She's in her classroom
with her friends.

Teacher Songelwa says,

...where have you been, Olwethu?”

“WOW!

Teacher, I’ve been everywhere!”
